CHICAGO, June 16.—(AP)—Ralph J. Capone, brother of Al "Scarface" Capone, today was sentenced to three years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., and fined $10,000 for having defrauded the government by filing false income tax returns. He was convicted of the charge on April 25.

Capone was convicted on two charges in connection with the alleged income tax frauds. On one count he was sentenced to serve three years at Leavenworth and fined $10,000; on the other, he was sentenced to two years in the Cook county jail and fined another $10,000. The terms were made concurrent, however, and the second $10,000 fine was suspended.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Secret meetings of millionaire businessmen, resignations of police department heads, the sentencing of one of the city's notorious gangsters and the finding of a presumed gangland "ride" victim's body, head, hands and feet removed to prevent identification, combined today to establish a momentous epoch in Chicago's 10-year fight against crime.

Hardly had Police Commissioner William Russell and Detective Commissioner John Stege stepped down from office under fire occasioned by the murder of Alfred Lingie, newspaper reporter, when the association of commerce called a secret meeting to plan the next move in the battle. And shortly thereafter the Chicago sanitary district canal gave up the body, the second in ten days.

Forty-eight of the city's most prominent businessmen met with Colonel Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association. They stayed in session from noon until late in the day. When they filed out, Randolph announced they had accomplished two important things:

(1) The establishment of a definite plan of enlargement of the secret investigations by the association of criminal activities.

(2) Provision to enlarge the so-called "secret six" committee of the chamber to include 16 civic leaders, empowered to hunt out and prosecute criminals.

Randolph promised that the association would do all in its power to curb, murder, bombings, banditry and all the other manifestations of underworld activity before the world's fair here in 1933.

STOCK EXCHANGE

Heavy Pressure Converges on U. S. Steel To Sink It 4-1-4 Points.

BY ELMER C. WALZER, United News Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Selling reminiscent of the 1929 panic brought stocks on the New York Stock Exchange down to their levels of last November. Market values dropped nearly $5,000,000,000 and recoveries were meager.

The averages all made new lows for the year. The Dow Jones & Co. industrial average broke 14.20 points to 230.05, the lowest since November 19; the railroad 8.61, the lowest since November 13, and the utility 5.70 to 58.11, a new 1930 low.

Simultaneously all other stock markets of the country broke to around their lows for the year. Wheat made new lows for the season with two positions well under the dollar mark. Cotton broke to new lows since the bumper crop season of 1928-1929. Rubber and cotton oil futures also made new lows, rubber making low records. Sugar, coffee, silver and many other nonferrous metals made new lows.

Bonds Irregular.
Bonds were irregular despite easy money, and curb stocks broke sharply. The 30-year bond, Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line on the curb broke from 36 1/8 to 35 and rallied to close at 35 1/2, off 1/4. The break to 35 followed its removal temporarily from the Chicago market for a few days. Selling orders swamped the specialist and when trading was resumed at 35 1/2 the stock promptly broke to 35 1/4 from 36 1/4. It closed at 35 1/4, off 1/4.

On the stock exchange values melted 2 to 20 points. No group was immune from the general selling and about 300 issues made new lows for the year or longer.

Heaviest pressure converged on U. S. Steel, which cracked to a new low at 133 1/4, off 1/4, where it closed. Other leaders followed and the whole market was very weak.

Rallies were of meager proportions. Around 2 p. m. an attempt to bring back prices resulted in a bit of short covering that affected U. S. Steel and Consolidated Gas. The rally failed to hold and selling gathered momentum to the close.

The reason for this demoralization was commodity and securities markets. In commodity and securities markets was not apparent in the news. Wall Street was of opinion that the selling on the passage of the tariff was more psychological than real and many observers were looking for a substantial rally tomorrow following further recessions in the early trading.

HOYLAK, England, June 16.—William Thomas Twine, tall young professional golfer from the Bromley and Dickley Club, in County Kent, shot a record 68 over the Royal Liverpool course today to lead a big field of nearly 300 in the first qualifying round of the British open championship.

Leo Diegel, Archie Compston and Jim Bradbeer, a London veteran, were tied for second place with scores of 70, but Diegel and Compston played the course of the Royal Liverpool Club, over which the championship proper will be fought out. This course is at least two strokes harder than Wallasey.

Until Compston, a late starter, came in with his 70 Diegel led the half of the field playing at the Royal Liverpool. Diegel and Compston equaled the course record.

Bobby Jones returned a score of 73 over the Royal Liverpool, one stroke over the course record. Jones, who had been on the course since the first round, played the course of the Royal Liverpool Club, over which the championship proper will be fought out. This course is at least two strokes harder than Wallasey.

MacDonald Smith and "Long Jim" Barnes had the same score, 77, Smith playing at Wallasey and Barnes at Royal Liverpool.

All the Americans, professional and amateur, have a good chance to qualify although Joshua Crane, of Boston, and F. H. C. Lee, of Los Angeles, who had 77 and 79, respectively, may have to do as well tomorrow as they did today. Estimates tonight fixed 158 as the probable figure needed to qualify after the first 18 holes tomorrow.

The courses and starting times will be severe in tomorrow's play. Horton Smith, one of the last out at Wallasey today, will tee off early at Hoylake. Jones played during the noon hour today and there will be little change in his starting time when he moves over to the other course.

Many of the galleries lunched on sandwiches en route with Jones who he and his wife, Mrs. Horton Smith, who had 77 and 79, respectively, may have to do as well tomorrow as they did today. Estimates tonight fixed 158 as the probable figure needed to qualify after the first 18 holes tomorrow.

During a visit to Washington some two weeks ago, he said, he had discussed his office personnel with John V. The department official, however, had no objection to his discharge Mr. Wallace, but had expressed himself in opposition to such dual employment as a general policy.

Mr. Wallace's husband, he told the committee, objected vigorously to the threatened him with the statement that if Mr. Wallace were relieved of his position he, Crawford, "would have more trouble than he had ever had before."

"When he threatened me with a statement of that character," said Mr. Crawford, "there was only one thing for me to do. I dismissed both of them immediately, although I had not intended to release Mr. Wallace. That was on June 11. Two days later Wallace left a letter at my office tendering his resignation, effective July 1. He already had been dismissed."

Mr. Crawford said that although the affidavit sent the committee by Wallace was dated June 11, the day of the dismissal, it was not actually signed until a subsequent day, following the conference which he said took place over the charges to be filed. The purpose in advancing the date of the affidavit, he said, was to make it appear that the charges antedated the discharge of the man and woman.

U. S. Marshal Characterizes Wallace's Action as Political Move To Defeat Him for Post.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(Special.)—Appearing personally before a subcommittee of the senate judiciary body today, L. H. Crawford, United States marshal for the northern district of Georgia, made a sweeping denial of all charges filed against him by T. A. Wallace, former clerk in the marshal's office at Atlanta, who has asked that Mr. Crawford's nomination be rejected.

The judiciary body appointed a special subcommittee to consider the nomination after receipt of the charges last week and decided to hold an open hearing on the case today following the arrival in Washington yesterday of Mr. Crawford. The subcommittee is headed by Senator Herbert, republican, of Rhode Island, and consists of Senator Steiwer, republican, of Oregon, and Senator Stephens, democrat, of Mississippi.

Demanding a right to be heard in his own behalf, Mr. Crawford, accompanied by his attorney, B. H. Sullivan, of Atlanta and Washington, occupied the stand for more than an hour this afternoon answering the charges in detail. At the outset he told the committee that the charges against him had been drawn up in the office of United States District Attorney Clint W. Hager, of Atlanta, last week on the day following his dismissal of Wallace and his wife.

Characterizing the protests against his recent resignation as political moves to defeat him, which he attributed to the department of justice, Crawford gave the committee a full report on the circumstances leading up to the dismissal of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace.

During a visit to Washington some two weeks ago, he said, he had discussed his office personnel with John V. Morrow, general accounting agent of the department of justice, who made known his attitude against employing any man and his wife in the same office. The department official, however, had no objection to his discharge Mr. Wallace, but had expressed himself in opposition to such dual employment as a general policy.

Mr. Wallace's husband, he told the committee, objected vigorously to the threatened him with the statement that if Mr. Wallace were relieved of his position he, Crawford, "would have more trouble than he had ever had before."

The purpose in advancing the date of the affidavit, he said, was to make it appear that the charges antedated the discharge of the man and woman.

George Harris Appeal.
The northern district marshal was accompanied to the committee by Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, who made a brief statement explaining he knew of no reason why the nomination should be rejected and that neither he nor Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, were opposed to confirmation. At the same time he asked the committee to investigate the charges thoroughly. Senator Harris came in a few minutes later and practically reiterated what Senator George had said.

The Wallace affidavits set forth charges falling into three groups. First he alleged that two gallons of a quantity of liquor seized in a raid June 3 had been diverted to the marshal's use; second, that one of the deputies in Crawford's office had been active in soliciting cases for a lawyer in Atlanta with the marshal's knowledge; and third, that Crawford had been unduly friendly toward a woman employee in his office.

Taking up the charges separately, Mr. Crawford filed with the committee a series of affidavits from the five deputy marshals working under him denying the citations made. He promised to present others tomorrow, explaining that he had not been in the primary, the committee canvasses the returns, sees that any duplicate votes

Political observers throughout the nation today are turning their eyes toward New Jersey, where voters will decide who of these three men is to receive the republican senatorial nomination. Two of the figures involved are nationally prominent and the fight centers squarely about the wet and dry issue. Dwight W. Morrow, left, ambassador to Mexico and member of the American delegation at the London naval conference, has come out for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Joseph F. Frelinghuysen, center, is a former senator and a modificationist. Representative Franklin Fort, a close friend of Hoover and long a leader in national republican affairs, is the sole supporter of the prohibition laws.

CANDIDATES READY AS VOTING NEARS

Only Two Rallies Slated for Election Eve Tonight.

Tonight is election eve, an occasion as filled with eagerness and expectancy for city office-seekers as ever was the night before Christmas. On Wednesday morning, nearly 25,000 Atlantans will have the opportunity of expressing their choice between Councilman Wiley L. Moore, ex-Mayor James L. Key, Alderman Ben T. Huie and City Warden W. H. Johnson for the post of mayor for the four years, as well as their taste in aldermen and councilmen and reorganizers.

In a last-minute presentation of their cases, some of the candidates will take to the air today and Wednesday morning, via the local radio broadcasting stations. Several ward rallies were held Monday night as candidates jumped from one school to another in a series of speeches. Rallies are scheduled tonight for Boulevard and second avenue in the interests of H. F. Rantin, candidate for twelfth ward councilman, and at Kennedy and Chestnut streets in the interests of Alderman Huie.

The campaign is expected to be a close one. Mayor Key, who has been in the city for many years, is a strong contender. He has been in the city for many years, is a strong contender. He has been in the city for many years, is a strong contender.

Supporters of all three candidates have been busy in the last few days. They have been busy in the last few days. They have been busy in the last few days.

Mr. Morrow's campaign manager, issued a statement predicting that the ambassador would win the nomination by a plurality "well up in six figures."

Frelinghuysen and Fort mentioned no figures in their claims. Morrow has the backing of the state republican organization and the county organizations outside of Essex county, where Jesse Salmon, who is Frelinghuysen's campaign manager, is republican county chairman.

The campaign has been waged on the prohibition issue despite the efforts of Frelinghuysen to inject the World Court, the London naval treaty, public utility regulation and other issues into it.

Morrow's opponents sought to make campaign material out of assertions by former Governor Stokes and President Hibben, of Princeton, that Morrow was a potential presidential prospect. Supporters of Morrow denied any plan to advance their candidate as a wet candidate in opposition to President Hoover in 1932.

Ambassador Morrow, who was formerly a partner of J. P. Morgan, was called by President Hoover for his post in Mexico to go to London as a delegate to the naval conference. He has urged ratification of the London naval treaty in campaign speeches.

Mr. Morrow took an active part in the campaign in behalf of her husband until recently when she withdrew to be near her daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who is approaching maternity.

NEWARK, N. J., June 16.—(AP)—Enlivened by two declarations from the White House of neutrality, a contest for the republican senatorial race which has attracted wide attention will be decided at the polls tomorrow.

The candidates are Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and Representative Franklin D. Fort.

The issue of the campaign has been prohibition. Ambassador Morrow advocating repeal of the eighteenth amendment and return to state control of liquor traffic, Frelinghuysen standing for modification under federal control and Fort running on a dry platform with the backing of the Anti-Saloon League and other dry organizations.

Prompted by published statements that Senator David Baird, Jr., had said in a speech that President Hoover was "intensely interested" in seeing Mr. Morrow elected to the senate, the following statement was issued from the White House yesterday:

"Protests have been received from supporters of Congressman Fort and ex-Senator Frelinghuysen in respect to Senator Baird's reported statement. Several weeks ago a statement was made from the White House that the president had taken no part as between republican candidates in New Jersey or in the primaries of any other state, that still holds good. This is also in accord with the expressed wishes of each of the candidates."

Supporters of all three candidates have been busy in the last few days. They have been busy in the last few days. They have been busy in the last few days.

TRIAL UP TODAY

Alderman To Face Bribery Indictment in Judge Moore's Court.

Alderman J. E. Turner is to go on trial before a jury in Judge Virlyn B. Moore's court this morning, the sixth person to answer indictments growing out of the grand jury's investigation into municipal corruption.

The cases of five others involved in the graft probe also are docketed for Judge Moore's court today, but it was definitely established Monday night that Solicitor-General John A. Boykin has decided to call the Turner case to trial.

The indictment which will be called today alleging that he, with Bruce Alderman, superintendent of the municipal garage, accepted a Chevrolet motor car and $550 in cash from the Federal Motor Truck Sales Corporation for obtaining for the company an order for the purchase of several new trucks and the rebuilding of a number of others.

The indictment is divided into two counts, Baxter being alleged to have aided and abetted Turner in the deal.

The witnesses to be called by the state include Nat Thornton, A. E. Smith and E. W. Ingram, all employees of the truck company; E. E. Parker, City Comptroller B. Graham West, and E. L. Barnes, deputy city clerk.

Selection of a jury will begin at 9 o'clock. Dr. Turner will be represented by Paul S. Etheridge.

The cases of the following also are on the docket and one of them will be called to trial should an unforeseen development win a delay for Dr. Turner.

Baxter, Harry York, Jack White, Alderman J. Allen Couch, J. E. (Red) Robinson and Wiley Melton, custodian of the auditorium armory.

HIS RESIGNATION

Tender, Effective Immediately, Comes as Big Surprise; Saunders Also Resigns.

As the grand jury was voting a new bribery indictment against him, City Clerk Walter C. Taylor submitted before Atlanta general council Monday afternoon his resignation, effective immediately. It was accepted.

The new true bill which was returned to Judge Virlyn B. Moore within an hour after Taylor had officially severed his connection with the municipal government charges that he accepted a bribe of $2,500 from Samuel N. Evans, attorney for the Atlantic Steel Company, to influence the repeal of an amendment to the city annexation proposal which would have included the steel company's plant in the property taken into the city in the annexation. Mr. Evans, a member of the firm of Jones, Evans, Powers & Jones, and Mayor I. N. Ragsdale are the witnesses listed on the indictment against Taylor.

The resignation of Taylor, submitted in a communication which made known his decision to leave office at once, came as a big surprise to members of council. It was accepted without roll call. A new city clerk is to be chosen at a special meeting of the council to be held tomorrow.

Taylor offered his resignation two weeks ago and it was accepted to be effective 30 days from date. Monday afternoon he submitted the following which was acted on immediately after the council had accepted the resignation of Councilman William E. Saunders, who had been elected to the council in the last election.

"I tender this, my resignation, as clerk of council, to take effect at once. I thank you each and every one of you for past courtesy."

"Yours truly,"
"WALTER C. TAYLOR."

Alderman Alvin L. Richards moved that the resignation be accepted, and this was done on a viva voce vote, without debate.

The new true bill against Taylor was the only one returned Monday by the grand jury. It was reported that more bills have been drawn and are to be presented to the inquisitorial grand jury.

trial body this week for action. During the last ten days the grand jury has been hearing witnesses on alleged graft and jury tampering, six persons already being under indictment for alleged efforts to "fix" the jury which last month convicted Taylor of bribery. Three of these are license inspectors in the office of the city clerk, the post Taylor relinquished Monday.

New Taylor Bill

The new Taylor bill charges that Taylor "did with force and arms being then and there clerk of council of the city of Atlanta, and as such being in a position of confidence, trust and clerkship in the legislative department of the city of Atlanta, composed of the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta, said office being an office of government in this state did unlawfully receive of and from Samuel N. Evans, acting as attorney and agent for the Atlantic Steel Company, two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500) in money, said money having been delivered to the accused to influence the behavior of the accused as such official in the matter of the passage and adoption of a resolution by said city council, general council of the city of Atlanta to the following effect:

"Whereas at a recent meeting of council an amendment to an existing resolution introduced by Alderman Couch was adopted to the property of the Atlantic Steel Company and as it has been shown to this body that the amendment of this plant would force its owners to move not only from Atlanta but from the state of Georgia, therefore be and is hereby repealed.

"Said paying and receiving of money being done in pursuance and fulfillment of an understanding and agreement between said Taylor and the said Samuel N. Evans, acting as aforesaid, would give the accused the sum of money for procuring the passage of said resolution, which purpose including the influencing of the official behavior of the accused in his said official position, which said resolution did thereafter become pending in the legislative department of the city of Atlanta and was adopted by the general council and thereafter approved by the mayor of Atlanta.

Duties Listed

The bill then lists the duties of the city clerk as established by custom, ordinance, charter and practice.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin said he would fix an additional bond for Taylor today. He already is under bond for appearance on the indictment, another bribery indictment and an appeal bond under which he was released following his conviction last month.

The Taylor resignation was accepted without comment. An effort to go immediately into the election of a successor failed, and it was postponed under the action of council until 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. Later, on reconsideration, it was postponed until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at a special meeting of council.

Taylor offered his resignation to council at its last meeting, effective July 1, and it was accepted, and there had been no intimation that he would quit the post earlier than that date until the paper was sounded at the council session Monday afternoon.

No Fight Launched

Aldermen Alvin Richards, G. Everett Millican and others made a futile effort at the time the Taylor resignation was presented to council June 2 to force an impeachment trial. They did not renew that effort Monday.

J. Henson Tatum and Ed L. Barnes, both chief contenders for the post which Taylor has vacated, will wage a heated battle for the majority of council votes at the Thursday afternoon session.

McCutcheon Asks Election

Taking the floor directly after the Taylor resignation was sounded, Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second ward, moved that council go immediately into an election of a successor.

"We might as well be plain about this matter," Mr. McCutcheon said, when opposition to an immediate election developed. "It has been charged that in the event of the election of Wiley Moore, as mayor of Atlanta, he plans to reinstate Taylor. I want this council to elect today and settle that matter as everybody knows it is false."

Alderman Richards pointed out that several members of council were absent from the session, "some of them attending the session of Fulton county grand jury on subpoenas."

"This is an important matter and all council should be accorded the right to vote on selection of a clerk," he said.

Other members took the same view and voted at first to defer the election until 5 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Saunders Still in Race

Councilman Saunders, in presenting his formal resignation, relinquishes his post as a member of council for the time being, but will continue a candidate in the primary Wednesday to succeed himself as a councilman from the 12th ward.

"I shall ask vindication at their (the 12th ward voters) hands, and feel that I will be vindicated of any wrongdoing at the final outcome of the charges against me," the resignation states.

He thanked members of council for the courtesies extended to him during his service and expressed his willingness to assist them in any way that he can in the future.

Immediately after the Saunders resignation was sounded, Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the tenth ward, introduced a substitute measure, providing for an impeachment trial on the three counts of the indictment on which Saunders was convicted last week when tried in Fulton county superior court.

Hits Parliamentary Snag

The Millican paper hit a parliamentary snag soon after it was sounded when Councilman W. Paul Carpenter, of the 9th ward, sought a ruling from City Attorney James L. Mayson regarding the propriety of offering an impeachment measure as a substitute for the resignation.

Mr. Mayson ruled that council should act on the resignation, and if it wished to place Saunders on an impeachment trial, it should decline to vote for the resignation.

Saunders' resignation was accepted on a roll call vote of 20 to 2 against, after the impeachment measure had been ruled out of order following the Mayson ruling.

Text of Resignation

Text of the Saunders' resignation follows:

"To the Mayor and Members of the General Council, City of Atlanta.

"Gentlemen:—I hereby beg to hand you my resignation as a member of general council from the twelfth ward, effective at once.

"In so doing I wish to extend to you my sincere thanks for the many kindnesses shown me during my year and one-half years' service with you, and I leave you with that feeling of regret one has in parting with friends, I will always cherish that friendship that has been made by my constant association with you.

"It has been my pleasure to represent as good a class of citizens as the country produces, and it is with sorrow and regret that I return to them the commission placed in my hands with the taint of dishonor upon it, but to that same people, whom I love better than my own life, I shall ask vindication at their hands, and I feel that I will be vindicated of any wrong doing at the final outcome of the charges against me.

"Knowing as I do, I am sure that the criticisms heaped upon you, will soon be cleared away, and any time I can be of service to you do not hesitate to command me.

"Oh, the skies are gray this morning and the wind is blowing cold. But some lovely day in summer when the rosebuds pink unfold, And we walk among the blossoms where the sunbeams brightly fall.

"Would be strange if we remembered it had ever rained at all. Respectfully submitted,

"W. E. SAUNDERS."

Millican, White in Title.

When Alderman Millican presented the impeachment paper he and Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, engaged in a lively verbal tilt.

"I am following my usual policy, the one I have laid down in previous situations of this kind in offering this measure," Mr. Millican said.

"There is only one of two things for this council to do. It should go into these charges, and if Mr. Saunders is guilty, it should impeach him for violation of his oath of office. If he isn't guilty, it should exonerate him and let him continue to hold his office. I have no personal feeling in the matter, but I believe the council should face its responsibility."

"It is punishment enough for a man to be driven from council under such circumstances," Mr. White declared. "I hate to take an opposite view of this thing from my friend Millican, but I believe it un-Christian to kick a man when he is down. Begun run out of council is a terrible penalty to pay. The first time I ever heard of anyone in the Atlanta municipal government being run out of office was during the administration of James L. Key. One of the public officials was permitted to quit then."

Councilman Nelson Spratt, of the 10th ward, declared that he felt sorry for Mr. Saunders, but added he could not vote for the resignation unless Saunders retired from the primary.

Alderman Ben Hulet, of the third ward, in explaining why he was voting against the Saunders resignation, stated he thought Saunders should quit the primary.

John Dumbrowskos, Alleged Counterfeiter, Said To Have Admitted Burglary.

Counterfeiting charges which have been waiting on him in Chicago since 1928, when he escaped from a train taking him to that city after serving a five-year stretch in the Atlanta prison, will face John Dumbrowskos, 34, alleged Windy City yeggman, who was arrested at a downtown hotel early Monday. He first was booked on a technical charge of suspicion but later admitted that he had robbed the safe of the Crescent Recreation Academy, a pool room at 461-2 Whitehall street, on June 8 and had secured $20.

Detective J. T. Allen, on scout duty with Detectives W. W. Ford and W. D. McGee, trailed Dumbrowskos to his lodging place after they had given him the once over down town. Allen, who has a penchant for faces listed under the offer of rewards, went to the man's room and examined his baggage. He said he found a home-made kit of yegg tools which, Dumbrowskos said later, were not as "efficient" as they should have been. He added that they failed him in the biggest job he had tackled in Atlanta but he didn't tell where the job was.

Lieutenant O. R. Jones, of the Atlanta police department, recognized Dumbrowskos as the man who helped federal officers escort almost to Chicago in 1928, only to lose him 25 miles out of the city.

Invicted in Georgia state courts, he will serve a term here before being returned to Chicago to answer the counterfeiting charges still booked against him in Illinois.

Legge Renomination Comes Up Today

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—The senate agricultural committee is willing to give Alexander Legge, the chairman of the farm board, an opportunity to finish the work he started a year ago in administering the new farm act and today unanimously approved his nomination for reappointment.

Legge's nomination along with that of C. C. Teague, of California, representing fruits and vegetables, was laid before the senate without comment and early confirmation is in prospect although there is no assurance of unanimous approval there. While Legge for the full six-year term, friends of the chairman understood that he intends to stay for only a year or so in order to get well established the work of the board.

The senate agriculture committee acted quickly today on the nominations. Both Legge and Teague were before the committee a year ago when their nominations were first presented. Chairman McNary reported that the committee was unanimous in its approval. He placed the nominations before the senate later in the day, and he hopes to have them considered tomorrow in regular order.

ADDRESS OF DR. D. WITHERSPOON DODGE Pastor—Central Congregational Church THE ETHICS OF POLITICAL CAMPAIGNING (Delivered Over WSB Last Evening)

INTRODUCTION

There are but a few days left in Atlanta's mayoralty campaign, in which you may make your choice of that candidate which will have your support. But there are four long years in which the people of this city may repent if the wrong man is elected.

It is an American political axiom that when the voters know the complete truth, they can be depended upon to render a wise verdict. This campaign is unusual, particularly in the methods employed by the two most prominent candidates.

One, Wiley L. Moore, rests his case before the people on his record as a citizen, a successful business man, and as a member of the council for six years. He is the only candidate who offers a constructive platform for your consideration. That platform pledges him, if elected, to a real business administration, with a budget system positively controlling expenditures. One of his opponents has adopted a campaign of political mud-slinging, going so far as to attack the ministers of our city and, according to the press, intimating that the women of our city have actually sold their votes. All of this is of little interest to thinking Atlantans at this time when the city is sorely in need of a capable man at the helm.

That the candidate may be presented clearly we take pleasure in introducing one of Atlanta's leading ministers, Dr. D. Witherspoon Dodge, pastor of the Central Congregational church, who has made a study of the present campaign and who will speak to you on the subject, "Ethics in Political Campaigning."

Dr. Dodge:

DR. DODGE'S ADDRESS

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Radio Audience: I am to speak to you on "The Ethics of Political Campaigning," and being a minister, I consider it a point germane to my subject that I should first state the proper attitude of a minister to that great and important realm of our social life which goes under the name of "Politics."

There is a prevailing sentiment, which is just another one of those hoary traditions which have been outgrown by thinking minds, to the effect that ministers should keep themselves entirely out of the field of politics. One of the candidates in the present race for mayor, Mr. James L. Key, has gone so far as to make a statement to that effect in one of his recent campaign speeches, "Ministers," he says, "have no business meddling in politics." He made this statement following an address over the radio by Dr. Faust, pastor of one of the other churches, Mr. Wiley Moore. It will be interesting to hear what he will say about my having another word to say about some aspects of the present campaign. But before he has a chance to say anything more, I wish to present in as clear-cut a form as possible my argument for the right and duty of every citizen of a community taking his full part in that conflict of forces which determines who the honored rulers and public servants of that community will be.

It is my position that a minister, like every other adult person, is first of all a citizen. He enjoys all the privileges of citizenship—safety, protection, the vote, the use of public institutions, etc. In return for these privileges, he owes very definite obligations to his community. Among these obligations, none so more important than the expression of all possible effort and diligence on his part to see that clean, worthy and able men are entrusted with the responsibilities of public office. No one would assert that it is in any sense improper for a minister to pray in his pulpit on Sunday that the community and nation may be clean, worthy and wise rulers; all would agree that this is quite a nice and proper thing for a minister to do. Well, of course every man is entitled to the kind of religion that he prefers, but as for me, I would not feel that there was the least spark of sincerity in my prayer if I were not willing on Monday and Tuesday and Wednesday to go out into the world of practical affairs and become a co-worker with my God in giving Him an instrument through which to answer that prayer. Rather, under such circumstances, I would feel like the veriest hypocrite, which I would be. I do not know exactly what the theology of a Sunday school teacher is as to the practice on Monday of the religion that he teaches on Sunday, but I am absolutely clear in my own interpretation of the relations of life and religion, which is an identification and not a separation.

Besides being a citizen, a minister is supposed to be a leader in his community. He stands at the head of the greatest of all the forces in this planet—the power of God in the life of human beings. If such forces are willing to take their real part in the battle of mankind for a better world and not spend all of their time fighting shambattles in temples made by men's hands behind closed doors, apart from the real field of life, they can further the march of civilization incalculably. It is one of the tragedies of history that organized religion has so largely failed to see the purpose and true field of its campaign and as a result, has occupied most of its time engaging in hair-splitting controversies over points of more or less meaningless theology and in rivalries with other branches of the same Lord's army.

Now, the new minister of today is not going to so mistake his true function and mission. Nor is he going to be quietly shelved by the specious and false traditional idea that "Religion and Politics have nothing in common." He is not going to try to save souls only but society also. He is not going to allow the fields of practical life to be preempted by the forces of evil alone. He is going to render to Caesar—that is, to the Government—the things that are His; and he is going to recognize that there is a close relationship between these mutual obligations and not a wall of separation.

As a man, therefore, who regards himself as a citizen of the community and who wants any influence that he may have to be used in the cause of promoting the welfare of said community, I not only have no apologies to offer to anyone for seeking to fulfill my obligations as I see them, but I would feel very much in the position of a slacker or a traitor to the best that I see if I did not respond as I am doing at this critical stage in the development of our city's life.

As for the ethics of political campaigning, the whole issue rests on a fundamental principle of both religion and of civilized life. It is the principle of respect for the personality of every man—opponents and enemies as well as friends. The methods of mud-slinging and mud-slinging have been outlawed by all decent societies. These methods do not add to the tone of the community's life. They do not promote the feeling of good-will which should always prevail, regardless of which one of the aspirants for public office may win.

On the contrary, they promote bad feeling, furnish the spark that ignites the fires of fanaticism, create distrust in the minds of the more respectful people and leave unpleasant and bitter memories which persist long after the campaign is over.

It is simply unfair for a candidate by insinuation or innuendo to seek to create impressions which are not true. This is an appeal neither to intelligence, reason or respectability, but to justice alone. And when one makes definite charges which he knows are not true, or for which he does not furnish specific evidence, or to which he does not give his opponent full opportunity to reply, he is worse than unfair—he is false and cowardly.

One of the candidates in this race for mayor has used these methods repeatedly. In fact, that is about all that he has done. I have not only read his speeches in the paper, but I have attended the meetings at which he has spoken, and he has used practically all of his time and that of his hearers in giving expression to aspersions and vituperations upon the name and character of his opponent.

I would here warn the public that a charge is not true simply because a man makes it. Of course a man can say anything and some people will believe anything. In order to be true, however, a charge must be backed up with the dependable evidence which establishes it. This evidence has not been forthcoming. The method of domestic statement alone has been relied upon. And this fact, of course, is positive proof that the charge was false to begin with.

I would also warn you against any eleven-hour charges which this candidate is likely to make upon the character of his opponent, when it is too late for public denial to be made. I say this because of the statement of this candidate who has all along relied mainly upon the tactics of mud-slinging that he was "saving his blazest shots" until the last. If any such statements come out at the very last, you will not be misled by any such procedure which bears upon its face the stamp of its unethical and cowardly nature.

When a man employs such methods as these, it instinctively arouses grave suspicions in the minds of the thinking people as to his own character; for, out of the heart are the issues of life, and out of the fullness of the heart, the mouth speaketh. Conduct of this kind creates its own censor. When a man so judges others, he is bound to be judged himself. His words of criticism become a indictment to point himself with the very colors with which he has tried to paint his opponent. He is judged out of his own mouth.

Now, Atlanta is going to follow this clean-up campaign by putting in the office of its chief executive a man who prior to election indicated very clearly by his own behavior that very little cleanliness may be looked for from him. He has put his own stamp upon himself, and he has no body to blame but himself for failure to win the confidence of the good people of our city.

In line with the ethical considerations of public affairs, the people want a candidate simply to state his platform, give his reasons for the positions that he holds and ask humbly but confidently for their support. This, Wiley L. Moore has done. Let him appeal to the reason of his hearers and not to their prejudices. Let him use his imagination to paint the pictures of the beautiful city which he would endeavor to make of Atlanta and not paint ugly and false pictures of his opponent. This, likewise, Wiley L. Moore has done. And if he is going to appeal to the feelings of his hearers, let them be the feelings of a noble citizen, a friendly cooperative community, a spirit of fair play rather than to those of baseless, ill-will and class-consciousness. Let the man remain a man, who would ascend the ladder of personal ambition and civic usefulness upon the rungs of merit, and not make of himself a man who would creep into office upon the piled-up bodies of the opponents whom his poisonous fangs have slain.

It is my belief that the majority of our citizens are going to cast their votes on the coming Wednesday for that candidate who throughout has waged his campaign upon a basis of constructive principles in pleading himself to a business-like administration; and who has made no charges against his opponent, but has only made statements of fact which it is well for our people to bear in mind. The method of the other leading candidate has been purely destructive, and there would be nothing constructive to look for from his occupancy of the office of mayor.

I have now emphasized those qualities which I consider proper to the conducting of an ethical political campaign. They are respect for personality, the spirit of fairness and fair-play, truthfulness, the right use of reason and imagination, a proper sense of dignity and the offering of a constructive platform. From this point of view, I have made a study of the two men who seem to be the leading candidates for the office of chief executive of our city. I have observed their personalities and the psychology by which they have sought to line up their followers. I have seen and heard them at first hand. I may say also that, therefore, at the beginning of the campaign, I had not made up my mind which of the candidates I would vote for. I reached my decision, however, soon after hearing both of these two leading candidates. The one man by his courteous, gentlemanly and constructive policy won my vote, the other man by his dirty, unadorned and destructive conduct lost my vote, for he has even gone so far, according to the press, as to insinuate that the good women of our city have sold their votes. I wish to state publicly, therefore, that at the coming election, I intend to cast my vote for Mr. Wiley L. Moore because I believe that he has proven by his method of conducting his campaign and by his general ability that he can most worthily and ably fulfill the obligations of the high office for which he asks the suffrage of our people.

I am speaking as a man, a citizen, a minister and one who aspires to the position of a constructive leadership in our community. I hope that every man and woman will vote for the man whom they believe will make the best official for our city; but I hope that they will allow the ethical principles to which I have called their attention in this talk to serve as guiding lights in making their decision.

I thank you.

The thoughtful and timely address by Dr. D. Witherspoon Dodge, pastor of the Central Congregational church, in behalf of Wiley L. Moore, to which you have listened, was made in the interests of clean political methods. It has perhaps given to many citizens a more intimate viewpoint of campaign methods and will make for a more general appreciation of the fact that Atlanta needs an honest business administration, with a business man of proven character and business ability like Wiley L. Moore in the Mayor's office.

Just this final word of caution: Please be on the lookout for some vicious, untrue eleven-hour charges. A cowardly practice which may be attempted to trick you. Cowardly because the maker knows his opponent would not have time to refute it.

168 Errors Found in 9th Ward List; Rosenbaum Row Ended

Mistakes Made Through Carelessness, Committee Reports; Walter Taylor Delivers Data to Candidate.

On the heels of filing of a special report by a special registration committee named by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, setting out 168 discrepancies in preparation of the registration list of the ninth ward for the primary Wednesday, Walter C. Taylor, city clerk and registrar, delivered a second ward list to Philip Rosenbaum, a candidate for council, and J. P. Wall, chairman of the executive committee, stated that every precaution would be taken to insure against errors of this kind.

While the special report of the registration committee cited the large number of mistakes, it set out that they were made through carelessness and not through any attempt to pervert any fraud, as citizens involved "are well known, and of undoubted probity."

It said, however, that the utmost care should have been exercised in making up the ninth ward list because of the change in the ward line due to establishment of the new thirteenth ward.

Of the 168 registration errors noted by the committee, 104 should have been listed in the new thirteenth ward, 10 in the eighth, 13 in the fourth, and 20 in the eleventh. All of these wards are adjacent to the ninth.

Signed by Members. The report filed by Herbert Choate, chairman of the committee, carried the signature of all members of the committee, and was adopted by council as a vote of confidence for and at the request of Councilman W. Paul Carpenter, opposed by Homer Foster, who made the charges of irregularities in the ninth ward list.

Regarding the ninth ward check and the irregularities found, the report of the committee said:

"In all fairness your committee would call attention to the fact that

TWO CHANGES MADE IN EDUCATION BOARD

S. C. Noland and C. O. Johnson Succeed W. H. Spratlin and Mrs. West.

S. C. Noland, southern division manager of the Automatic Sprinkler Corporation and widely known in civic circles, and C. O. Johnson, former teacher and an Atlanta attorney, Monday were elected as members of the Atlanta board of education from the 8th and 11th wards, respectively. Council was unanimous in the selection of both, and Mr. Noland was sworn in immediately by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale.

They succeed W. H. Spratlin and Mrs. Paul West, respectively, both the latter members having resigned to accept appointments with Fulton County Clerk of Court J. Walton Simmons.

Interest Centers In Wards' Rank In Visiting Polls

On the eve of the city-wide primary for the election of municipal officials incidental interest Monday centered on the conjecture of what percentage of the 26,738 registered citizens will cast their ballots Wednesday as well as how the various wards will rank in the number of voters who exercise the privileges for which they are registered.

Statistics compiled by the committee on registration and suffrage of the Atlanta Inter-Civic Association, a non-political, non-partisan organization, whose principal activity is to stimulate interest in city elections, show that in the primary of 1928 only 69.8 per cent of the 21,330 registered voters cast their ballots.

In the last election the tabulation shows there were only 12 wards, and in the voting the eleventh ward ranked first, with 82.76 per cent of its registered voters casting ballots. The twelfth ward finished second, with 82.56 per cent, while the fifth ward was third, with 81.43 per cent. Other wards and their respective percentages and rank were as follows: Tenth ward, 77.32 per cent, fourth; sixth ward, 73.96, fifth; third ward, 72.29, sixth; second ward, 68.03, seventh; seventh ward, 64.88, eighth; first ward, 62.56, ninth; fourth ward, 62.02, tenth; eighth ward, 59.82, eleventh and ninth ward, 57.47, twelfth.

its commerce committee were approved in short order as the tariff-barrier group pressed to disposition of the legislation.

Among them was the highly controversial proposal that the federal government take over the Erie and Oswego canal in New York state. As approved, it carried a provision that the waterway should remain a barge traffic artery and should not interfere with the development of the St. Lawrence waterway.

With the exception of the Illinois waterway, however, and a provision for an inter-oceanic canal in Nicaragua, which was held up by a technicality, the senate approved without debate all of the changes its committee had made.

Efforts to compromise on the Chicago provision were renewed, but leading protagonists were not optimistic over prospects of recommending the attitude of the Illinois and Great Lakes states senators.

Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, leading opponent of the provision, said he was hopeful of success in getting an agreement avoiding authorization of diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

Senator Deneen, republican, Illinois, however, said he saw little prospect of conciliation. Deneen and his colleague, Senator Glenn, are prepared to carry their fight for the committee provision.

With amendments approved today, the bill would authorize $2,500,000 annually for operation of the New York waterway. It would approve a nine-foot channel development in the upper Mississippi river and authorize $1,500,000 for initial works, in addition to existing appropriations; and would authorize $15,000,000 in addition to present appropriations to develop the Missouri river channel from Kansas City to Sioux City, Iowa.

Among the amendments approved by the senate were several increasing authorizations for the southern states. These included an increase in the house authorization for development of the Tennessee river, from $5,500,000 to $8,000,000, with approval of a nine-foot channel, all the way to Knoxville; an increase in the house authorization for improvement of Brunswick harbor, Georgia, from $304,000 to $1,210,000; removal of a house provision for a contribution of $100,000 by local interests for development of the inland waterway from Norfolk to Beauford inlet, North Carolina, at a cost not exceeding $500,000; and removal of a house provision restricting appropriation for the intra-coastal waterway from Pensacola bay, Florida to Mobile bay, Alabama, to $100,000. The senate, however, provided the federal government should incur no expense for land required.

In the Caloosahatchee river and Lake Okechobee drainage area projects the local contribution was decreased from $4,546,000 to $2,000,000; the Tampa harbor house requirements of a $230,200, local contribution was stricken out; provision was inserted for intra-coastal waterway from Jacksonville to Miami and provisions for Miami harbor were modified to provide $200,000 for the work adopted instead of a final limitation of $200,000 for the project.

Albert B. Fall Asks Pension as Veteran

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, has applied to the government for a pension for military service during the Spanish-American War.

The application of Fall, who was a captain during the Spanish-American War, is on file at the bureau of pensions. Bureau officials said his service apparently entitled him to a pension.

Fall is at present at liberty on bond on his conviction of receiving a bribe from Edward G. Bremer, Doherty in connection with naval oil leases. He has been reported in financial difficulties and a ranch in New Mexico was sold to satisfy creditors.

Under the Spanish veteran's pension bill, recently enacted over President Hoover's veto, Fall, who is 69, would receive $40 a month.

CAPONE CASE LAWYER SAYS OFFICE ENTERED

Papers in Perjury Action Molested, Hunt Declares.

MIAMI, Fla., June 16.—(AP)—Richard H. Hunt, Miami attorney, said today that his office, in a downtown building, was broken into over the week-end by persons whom he believed to be hunting for documents upon which four perjury warrants against Scarface Al Capone were based Saturday.

Hunt said that J. O. Phillips, another attorney who has offices with him, discovered yesterday afternoon that the office had been entered.

Phillips reported the entry to police, who gave out no information on the report yesterday.

Hunt said his office safe had been opened, and that a large roll of papers referring to the Capone warrants, which had been left on his desk, had been unrolled. None of the papers was taken, he said, since they were all carbon copies.

The prowlers left $140 in cash in the safe, Hunt reported.

The attorney conducted the investigation of the alleged perjury by Capone during testimony in a false arrest case he brought against Director of Public Safety S. D. McCreary. He was employed by McCreary, he said, and turned over originals of all documents in the case to County Solicitor George McCaskill Saturday, prior to issuing the warrants.

Police started investigation of the case today.

McCaskill said today that trial of Capone on the perjury charges probably will be held next week in Dade county criminal court of record.

'All Quiet' Opens Its Second Week To Bigger Crowds

Funeral of Holley Will Be Held Here

Larger crowds than ever marked the opening at the Erlanger theater Monday of the second week of the road show presentation of "All Quiet on the Western Front," most remarkable screen production dealing with the World War that has yet come from the California studios.

The story of Erich Maria Remarque's book, a best-seller in half a dozen languages, has been transcribed with utmost fidelity to the screen by Lewis Milestone, the director, and it has gained the immeasurable value of the realism of vision and sound, which so far transcended what properly achieved, the best that the written word can achieve through the reader's imagination.

With Lewis Ayres, Louis Wolheim and "Slim" Summerville heading a cast remarkable for its utter fitness for the various roles, the tale of the group of German school boys who went to war in the first flush of German militaristic enthusiasm, only to suffer and die, disillusioned and broken in soul and spirit, is the classic of the war.

Not that the picture is confined to the brutal realism of trench warfare. There are many bright sequences, abounding in humor and in some places telling love stories with a poignancy and sweetness rendered the more beautiful by the background of conflict.

The scenes in the German home, too, where the mother thinks only of the health of her son, even as she is dying, and the father cannot understand the man who has come back in place of the boy who marched away, are beautiful in their simple, homely truth.

The picture, given under the perfect conditions of a road show presentation, is offered at the Erlanger theater daily all week at 2:30 and 8:30 o'clock. All seats are reserved, and judging by the steady increase in size of audiences ever since the opening one week ago, it is the part of wisdom to make reservations at once.

They may now be secured for performance of the week either at the theater box office or at Phillips & Crew Piano Company on Peachtree near Baker street.

DETROIT POLICE BELIEVE GANG MENACE REDUCED

Five More Arrests Expected To Cripple Crime Organization.

DETROIT, June 16.—(AP)—With the arrest over the week-end of four alleged members of a kidnap gang and the gathering of information which may lead to the capture of five more, police tonight believed they had struck a decisive blow against an organization which has preyed on groups of Detroiters for more than two years.

After a six months' investigation, squads of detectives moved suddenly yesterday and arrested Mr. and Mrs. Stanley De Long, of Ferndale, a suburb; Harry Hallissy, alleged "blind" operator, and Benny Rubenstein. They are booked on charges of suspicion in kidnaping.

The arrests here came because two former members of the gang now serving long terms in Michigan penitentiaries "talked." These two members are Henry R. Andrews and Joseph (Legs) Laman.

At least six kidnappings and slayings are expected to be solved as a result of the arrests. These cases include the kidnaping and slaying last summer of David Cass, son of a well-to-do Detroit real estate man; the kidnaping of Fred Begeman, wealthy retired Wyandotte bootlegger; the slaying of William Wesley Gunn, prosecution merchant; the kidnaping of Max Plummer, Toledo, Ohio, hotel man; the kidnaping of Matthew Hol-dreith, Jr., son of a Detroit restaur-anteur, and the kidnaping of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gross and Robert Foster. Unknown thousands of dollars are believed to have changed hands as a result of the kidnappings. The gang achieved such a reputation for itself that the relatives of its victims hesitated and occasionally refused to co-operate with the police. According to the officers investigating the gang's activities, 17 persons were at one time or another in the "racket." Of these seven are in prison, another killed by gangsters, and five at large. Laman and Andrews are said to have furnished the names of the five gangsters still uncaptured.

PENDING SUIT RECALLS PRINCE'S LIKING FOR MRS. WARD

Influence on Wales' Life

BY W. G. MARSDEN.

LONDON, June 16.—(North American Newspaper Alliance.)—A change has come over the Prince of Wales. To the general public the change is not especially noticeable. The prince continues to fulfill all his public engagements, although he did do the fourth court by making a "duty" visit to his Cornwall estate on the date of the court.

But his more intimate associates recognize that since his return from Africa a distinct change has come over the prince. He has practically cut out all private dinners, dances and week-end parties. And he has late not even visited the night clubs. It had been expected that the prince would figure as a host at his new country house, Fort Belvedere, and that he would entertain there at weekends on an extensive scale. But the only guests he has had have been a few of his more intimate men friends. Indeed, the prince is keeping at present very much more to the company of men than women friends.

Now, according to some who are at least fairly intimate with H. R. H., the change has come over him may be accounted for by the fact that Mrs. Dudley Ward is getting a divorce, an event that may profoundly influence the future of the heir to the throne.

Met at Oxford. The story of the prince's romantic regard for Mrs. Dudley Ward can be briefly told. The prince first met her when he was at Oxford a year before the war, which was the year of Mrs. Ward's marriage. The prince at the time purchased a farm near Nottingham to breed dairy stock.

At Nottingham he met Mrs. Ward's father, Colonel Birkin, a wealthy manufacturer, and became on friendly terms with him. There appears no doubt that from the moment the prince met the manufacturer's daughter, who soon afterward became Mrs. Dudley Ward, he was in love with her. His love was that of a romantic boy of 18 for a woman five years his senior, and one whom he could not possibly hope to marry.

He idealized her, and his feelings have never changed. For 17 years she has been to him the ideal of womanhood, and he has never made the least secret of his admiration.

When the war was over and the prince began to enter into social engagements Mrs. Dudley Ward became his favorite dancing partner. He met her frequently at her own home and at the houses of his friends. Everything was perfectly frank, open and above-board.

Now in the romance of the prince's life another romance, a boyhood romance, may be mentioned. For the object of the prince's devotion when he was 15 is supposed to have borne a remarkable resemblance to the Mrs. Dudley Ward of today. This lady for whom the boy prince conceived so great an admiration was one of the beauties of his grandfather's court, the present Duchess of Buccleuch, then Lady Dalkeith.

And then, three years later, Mrs. Dudley Ward entered into the prince's life.

Not Happy.

Mrs. Ward's marriage to a man 20 years her senior was not happy. And now Mrs. Ward appears rather unexpectedly to have turned her mind to a divorce. Before the year is out she will be free to marry again. And the question very much interesting the prince's friends and the prince at the moment is what H. R. H. will do when the woman by whom he has been so much attracted for 17 years is free.

It is impossible to think that he could obtain the consent of his father and of parliament to marry without the consent of the king and of parliament she could never become queen or Princess of Wales. She would become simply Mrs. Windsor. But she would be legally married to the prince, and he could not in the present state of public opinion marry anyone else afterward.

If the prince placed himself in such a position it would probably be impossible for him to remain Prince of Wales and heir to the throne. He would have to abdicate, and how he could do that is not clear.

But if the prince does not marry Mrs. Ward when she is free to marry him he would probably have to break off close friendship with her. And circumstances may compel H. R. H. to do so; it is even possible the lady herself may do so. Time only can tell.

Doctor and Helpers Held on Dope Charge

Dr. Louis Balmori and four other persons were bound over to the federal grand jury on charges of violating the anti-narcotic laws Monday as the aftermath of a raid on the offices of the physician on Pryor street.

Dr. Balmori, who was said to have been running a wholesale "dope ring" in Atlanta with sales running as high as $100 daily, was bound over under $100 bond.

J. J. Smith was bound over under $2,000 bond and Jack Swain, under $1,000 bond. Bond for Mrs. D. M. Britt, of Decatur street, was fixed at $100.

Clyde Hobbs, a negro, was bound over under $500 bond. He is said to have attempted to smuggle a supply of morphine to Smith, who was confined in the Fulton county jail.

Legion Post To Hold Week Beauty Pageant

The beauty of Atlanta's girls, which is recognized from ocean to ocean, will be given its opportunity this summer to vie with the pulchritude of the rest of the Americas—both North and South—and that of Europe by means of a contest launched Monday by the American Legion post, No. 1, in conjunction with its plans for a week's mammoth pageant during July, depicting the "Last Days of Pompeii."

Announcement of the opening of entries for the Atlanta beauty contest was made by post officials Monday, together with advance plans for the gigantic celebration which will be staged at Spiller park for seven nights, beginning July 26 and ending August 2, featuring a pyrotechnic display and pageant of Lord Bulwer Lytton's famous novel.

Official headquarters for entrants in the beauty contest to be held as part of the celebration have been established in Room 517 Chamber of Commerce building.

Arthur G. King has formed a special committee to handle the contest, and it is announced that every effort will be made to bring to public light the most beautiful of Atlanta's feminine population.

GEORGIAN WANTS U. S. TO REDEEM FARM LAND

Lankford Proposes Purchase and Resale of Foreclosed Acreage.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(Special.)—In a bill laid before the lower house today by Representative W. C. Lankford, of Georgia, congress was asked to authorize the purchase and resale to the original farmer-owners of all lands which had been acquired in recent years by persons, firms or corporations through foreclosure proceedings.

The secretary of the interior would be authorized to resell the lands to farmers and accept payment over a period of 40 years at 4 per cent interest.

Explaining the scope of the unique proposal, Representative Lankford said: "The secretary would resell the farms along the same line and on the same terms as is now followed in selling reclaimed lands of the west. In other words, this bill would bring about the reclamation of the millions of acres of land that is now owned as the result of foreclosure proceedings by loan organizations and is now in an abandoned condition. 'I feel that congress should enact some law to solve the serious problem that is presented by this enormous amount of land passing out of the hands of farmers of the country. The loan companies would like to resell it, the farmers should have it, and I believe a system can be evolved which would require very little expenditure by the government and yet relieve the loan companies of the burden of carrying this property and at the same time get it back into the hands of the farmers of the country.'

A Clear Skin Comes from Within

WITH the last blemish gone, confidence returns. More friends, more invitations—more good times. With the joy and pride of possessing a clear skin, self-respect increases.

First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely, clear skin is within the reach of all. To you who have lost it, hope is offered, that you, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.

The natural way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders, take a few bottles of S.S.S.

JUDGE SAMUEL SIBLEY INDORSED BY LAWYERS

Georgia Bar Association
Asks His Appointment to Court of Appeals.

Announcement was made Monday that the executive committee of the Georgia Bar Association had endorsed Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of the northern Georgia district, for the fourth judgeship of the fifth circuit court of appeals.

The executive committee acts for the general association on all official matters except when the association is in convention.

The lawyers adopted a resolution urging the president and attorney-general to study Judge Sibley's record and recommended his appointment.

ment. The judgeship recently was created by congress. The fifth circuit includes Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi.

Judge Sibley lives at Marietta. He was appointed federal judge by President Wilson 10 years ago.

The resolution follows: "Whereas, the congress of the United States has created an additional judgeship for the circuit court of appeals for the fifth circuit;

"Be it resolved that we, the executive committee of the Georgia Bar Association (which acts officially for the association except when it is assembled in annual session), earnestly recommend to the president and attorney-general the appointment of Judge Samuel Hale Sibley, district judge of the United States court for the northern district of Georgia, to the new circuit judgeship.

"Although Judge Sibley is now only 56 years of age, he has attained a degree of judicial capacity rarely equaled, and in the natural course he will become one of the great judges of all time.

"Almost immediately upon leaving college, where he made an enviable record, his power as a lawyer was recognized by the judges and lawyers of Georgia, who presented for him a career of distinction, which he has fulfilled even beyond their expectations. Long before his mind had reached his present state of maturity his arguments before the courts of this state were regarded as models to be followed by other practitioners. For many years before going upon the bench his council and ability as a lawyer were respected to the point that his time was largely taken up by employment of other lawyers to act as leading counsel in their cases. The same capacities for resolving intricate and complex legal questions into their simple and fundamental elements stated with clarity and vigor which characterized his work as a practitioner have manifested themselves to even greater extent in his opinions as a judge. And these capacities are utilized with a facility and celerity seldom experienced. During the ten years that Judge Sibley has been upon the federal bench in Georgia we have never ceased to marvel at the quality and dispatch of the large volume of his work as a judge.

"His private as well as his official life is perfect, and is so regarded by the bar and the public-at-large alike, who feel pride in his achievement as a man, a lawyer, and a judge, and who would enthusiastically regard his promotion as the just reward of merit."

Piles Go Quick

No Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers have not yet learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study discovered a real internal remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 980 cases, and then decided Pile sufferers everywhere should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Jacobs' Pharmacy today. They always guarantee it to give you quick and lasting relief or money-back.—(adv.)

The condition of J. B. Puckett, 50, a Rockmart farmer, and his brother, Luke Puckett, beaten in an encounter with an unknown mob—according to fragmentary reports collected by police—was said at Grady hospital late Monday to be serious but the men have a chance to recover.

The two brothers, and the son of Luke Puckett, Roy, were riding on Crooked road, according to incoherent statements made to police, when they were held up by five men demanding liquor. A brawl resulted in which the Pucketts were all beaten, the father and son severely.

'Joke' Wedding Valid, Supreme Court Rules

Holding that a marriage cannot be set aside lightly and without cause, the Georgia supreme court Monday ruled the Floyd superior court without jurisdiction in annulling a marriage entered into in jest.

According to the record, Miss Rena Berry, 21, Richard Maddox Head, both members of prominent families, were married at Fort Payne, Ala., following a dinner and dance at Cloudland last August. John M. Perry, as next friend of Miss Berry, brought suit to annul the marriage, stating that the girl was only 15 years old at the time and the boy 19.

Judge Hale, of the Floyd superior court, dissolved the marriage, and Hand appealed the case.

In its decision Monday the supreme court stated that a proper construction of the pleading shows "that while the marriage was agreed to in a spirit of levity and as a joke, nevertheless there was no fraud on the part of either party toward the other."

MEN AND WOMEN NEED NOT HAVE GRAY HAIR

Nature Will Keep the Hair
Youthful Shade, Free of Gray

LIFELESS GRAY HAIR
REGAINS OLD BEAUTY

Everybody knows if color glands and hair roots are healthy and active the hair will continue indefinitely a rich, natural color entirely free of gray or streaked locks.

A doctor several years ago asked himself this question: If I can stimulate digestion, liver, heart, etc., with a tonic, why not rub a stimulating tonic into the scalp that will revive those inactive glands so nature in her own natural way will resume putting plenty of pigment into the hair tubes?

The doctor's search led to endless experiments. He didn't want a regular dye or tint, and he, of course, must be harmless even if a person used it many years. Now under the name, "Lea's Hair Tonic," anyone may purchase the preparation he finally perfected. For several years hairdressers over the country have been using it. Results are so nice and gradual men use it too. It doesn't stain the scalp and as a test one need only apply it to some small spot a few days to watch results. Shampoo as often as desired. Easy to apply yourself at home and look years younger.

Most people first try Lea's for gray hair, but it is primarily intended as a stimulating tonic to put the scalp and hair in healthy, vigorous condition. Of course with a healthy scalp comes more beautiful hair and restoration of the natural brilliance and shade exactly suited to your complexion.

There are some three thousand shades of color in human hair—no dye expert can paint one's hair as exquisitely as nature. Lea's merely stimulates nature when massaged into the scalp—puts nature back on the job, you might say, and what is more beautiful or becoming than nature's own choice of shade to match your eyes and beauty?

If reader desires to try Lea's Hair Tonic on guarantee of complete satisfaction, they should get a bottle at drug store or pin dollar bill to this advertisement and send for Lea's Tonic Company, Brentwood, Md., for regular size bottle, full directions, postage paid. Experts cannot detect the use of Lea's Hair Tonic. Sent parcel post, C. I. D., if you wish—12c extra.—(adv.)

"Flies are highly dangerous"

says The United States Public Health Service

When children come down sick with typhoid or summer complaint, which kills more than 1/5 of the children who die under five, what is the cause? Often the disease has been brought into the home by flies. The government calls the common fly "the worst of all man's natural enemies," because "there can be no doubt of the house fly's responsibility for much sickness and many deaths."

Be comfortable and safe. Keep your home insect-free. Spray Flit, which is guaranteed (or money back) to be quick-death to flies, mosquitoes, moths, roaches, bed bugs and other household insects. Yet its clean-smelling vapor is harmless to humans.

An Outside View of the Mayoralty Contest!

Do the people of the City of Atlanta want for their mayor a man like James L. Key, who is held in contempt by the state—or will they vote for Wiley L. Moore?

A vote for Wiley Moore is a vote for clean business administration of the city's affairs. He manages a business whose income is larger than that of the City of Atlanta, with an operating expense of less than half what Atlanta's cost her.

The Nashville, Georgia, Herald, is a representative weekly newspaper, published in one of the best counties of the state. Its view fairly reflects the editorial sentiment of the country press of Georgia. Read what it says editorially of Atlanta Mayoralty contest:

QUESTIONABLE POLITICS IN ATLANTA

(From the Nashville, Georgia, Herald.)

"Up in Atlanta, that great city that every Georgian is proud of and that even we down in the far Southern portion of the State are interested in, they are having a real hot mayoralty campaign. There are four in the race and among them one old-time political war horse, or mule, who has lived on the political bottle for lo these many years, one who is spewing out mud in the good old-fashioned way, defaming his fellow candidates and citizens in a way to disgrace himself and do an injustice to the fair city of Atlanta, that we all yet believe in and that we down in the Wiregrass country are sure contains as good citizens and as many of them as any city in the United States, even if a few black sheep crept into its town administration. This vitriolic aspirant to the mayor's office with antiquated political campaigning methods, directs his poisoned shafts especially against a Mr. Moore, another candidate, no doubt because he is the leading man in the race. They have accused him of many things, but judging from the papers they have not proved anything. They exhausted every charge in the category of crime it would seem, and in their blind rage got so confused that they turned to complimenting him by alleging that he was the president of the State Chamber of Commerce, an organization that has for its object the betterment of the Georgia farmer and his family and the making of his farm more profitable and prosperous—which in turn means that the towns and other cities of Georgia, including Atlanta, will be more prosperous. We, down in South Georgia, believe that Atlantans have discrimination enough to give such a man a big majority. We will anxiously look for the papers on the 19th inst., (day after the primary) and see if they don't."

Testimony That Cannot Be Disregarded!

Than Robert F. Maddox, Atlanta never had a better Mayor. In August of last year Wiley L. Moore, as chairman of the City Finance Committee, tendered his resignation to the Mayor when Council overrode him on a measure which he regarded as municipal extravagance. Robert F. Maddox then wrote to Mayor Ragsdale, urging that he not accept Chairman Moore's resignation. In his letter to Mayor Ragsdale Mr. Maddox wrote:

"I fully agree with you as to the capabilities of Mr. Moore to serve in this important office and feel that you were wise in having such a good business man as the head of this committee to support you in the wise and economical administration of the finances of the city.

"It will be gratifying to all your friends to know that the finances of the city of Atlanta have been held in reasonable bounds and her expenditures within her income.

"I know that this has been the policy of Mr. Moore and I certainly hope he will reconsider his resignation and will continue to serve you in the future as well as he has in the past in this important position."

A vote tomorrow for Wiley Moore for Mayor is a vote for a clean, honest, economical administration of city affairs. Think of that when you cast your ballot!

Georgia Income Tax Deadline Finds State Much Wealthier

Many Thousands of Dollars Find Their Way Into Treasury as Allotted Period Closes.

The state of Georgia Monday, with the closing of the period allotted for the payment of income tax was some hundreds of thousands of dollars wealthier than a month ago.

Just how much richer it will remain practically until the end of the week, before which R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner, said it would be impossible to ascertain the total paid in.

In addition to hundreds who called personally at the state capitol Monday to pay the tax, innumerable letters bearing payments were received. The first mail Monday brought three small sacks full of later receipts were even larger.

Today's mail, as payments mailed before midnight Monday are considered within the allowed period, is expected to bring many more payments.

Due to the fact that the tax is a new one, to which the people are unaccustomed, Mr. Norman announced Monday that payments made within the next 30 days, if accompanied by a valid excuse, probably would be relieved of the penalty provided by law.

The law provides a penalty of 25 per cent to any person, firm or corporation failing to make a return, this amount to be increased to 50 per cent if, after hearing and assessment, the delinquent taxpayers still refuse to pay. The law also provides for punishment as for a misdemeanor if the taxpayer fails to make a return or in any way deliberately makes a false or fraudulent return for the purpose of escaping liability.

For the past two weeks Mr. Norman has had his regular staff augmented by men with federal income tax experience, who have assisted the representatives of the department have been stationed at Savannah, Augusta, Columbus, Macon, Rome, Brunswick and Waycross, also.

Unique in its undertaking, a summer school for negro librarians to serve the southeast was opened Monday in connection with the Morehouse-Spelman summer school activities.

With 36 students enrolled from 13 southern states, the negro librarians' school will continue for six weeks.

The school represents a new phase of the southern library program of the Julius Rosenwald fund, for which a total of $500,000 has been committed since the first of the year from the $34,000,000 set aside by Mr. Rosenwald for philanthropic work.

The negro librarians summer school just opened here was undertaken by the fund upon recommendation of the Southeastern Library Association, with provision that it would be supervised by the latter organization.

With a faculty of prominent southern librarians, headed by Miss Charlotte Templeton of Greenville, S. C., president of the Southeastern Library Association, the undertaking was launched in an effort to raise the standards of efficiency and educational value in practically every principal community of the southeast where negro library branches are maintained.

The summer school faculty includes Miss Fannie Dora Barker and Miss Ernestine McGill, of Atlanta; Miss Ruth Theobald and Mrs. Rachel Harris, of Louisville; Miss Mary Carpenter, Spartanburg; Miss Mary Rothrock, of Lillian Griggs, of the North Carolina library commission; Miss Florence Curtis, of Hampton institute, and Miss Templeton.

The course of the school will be devoted chiefly to training the negro librarians in the reading and allied requirements for children, including the reading facilities in schools, and for community contact, making the library effective as a community center.

Miss Templeton explained, she pointed out that "the most effective means for equalizing educational opportunity for the rural sections in general and for the negro population in particular was through the library."

"Among these elements, as well as elsewhere, the most important purpose of the library is to provide an economic service to the community. For this reason trained librarians are highly essential in the negro branches," Miss Templeton stated.

Virgil C. Harris Named Convention Delegate

Virgil C. Harris, well known in Atlanta insurance circles, has been appointed as one of the delegates to the annual convention of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company to be held in Newark, N. J., next week, as the result of his production record during the last year, it was announced Monday by officials of the R. L. Foreman general agency of the insurance concern.

Since Mr. Harris joined the local offices of the Mutual Benefit Company several years ago he has achieved conspicuous success, several times heading the entire list of the company's Georgia representatives and never failing to qualify for the national convention trips, regardless of the fact that the standard for qualification each year has been increased.

After the close of the Newark convention Mr. Harris, with the rest of the Georgia party, will spend several days in Canada and about the Great Lakes.

Auto Tags Produce $123,043 During May

The state motor vehicle department Monday turned over $123,043.67 to the state treasury, the sum representing May revenues from the sales of automobile licenses.

The figure was several thousand dollars under that of April, when $164,007.25 was collected. "The drop is considered seasonal, however, although collections for the two months were considerably lower than for the same months of 1929, when April collections were $206,544.46, and May, $145,127.50.

GEORGIA POPULATION REACHES 2,799,792

Unofficial Tabulation Made of 154 of 161 Counties in State.

The population of Georgia reached 2,799,792 in an unofficial tabulation Monday of 154 of the state's 161 counties. The population of Savannah, but not all of Chatham county, was included in the count.

In 1920 the same counties and Savannah had a population of 2,701,224. The increase of 98,568 came in face of losses of population of approximately 100 counties in the state.

Savannah, with its population of 84,714, remained the state's second city. Ten years ago it had a population of 83,232. The increase was 1,482.

This tabulation is based almost wholly on preliminary figures. Considering the difference in preliminary figures and the official count, the state's population is expected to be more than 2,900,000 and census workers still believed it would be near 3,000,000.

The seven missing counties all are in the Savannah district. Thus far no counties from that district have shown extraordinary growth, and two of the four to report lost population.

The latest counties to be tabulated were Liberty and Evans. Liberty had a count of 8,604 compared with 9,881 in 1920, and Evans returned 7,102 compared with 6,594 in the last census.

While the population figures have been slightly disappointing to many, the unemployment situation in Georgia has been a source of optimism. Returns from a majority of the district indicated the situation could scarcely be called a "problem," as the percentage of unemployed was slightly more than 10 per cent in Fulton, DeKalb, Bibb, Muscogee and Floyd, some of the state's greatest industrial counties, the percentage was surprisingly low.

MRS. BOOTH FREED IN KIDNAPING CASE

Woman Found Not Guilty After Jury Deliberation of 30 Minutes.

Mrs. M. L. Booth, whose recent attempt at the road show business ended in Asheville, N. C., with her arrest on charges preferred by parents of two of the members of the cast, Monday afternoon was acquitted by a jury in Fulton superior court after an all-day trial on a charge of kidnapping Miss Bessie Louise Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Russell.

The jury was out slightly more than half an hour before returning a verdict of not guilty. Assistant Solicitor-General Ed A. Stephens said that he has not decided when a second kidnaping case against Mrs. Booth would be called for trial. The other indictment alleges that Mrs. Booth kidnaped Miss Martha Elizabeth Robinson, who now is Mrs. Billy Shannon.

Mrs. Booth was convicted recently in Lawrenceville on a charge of false swearing and was sentenced to serve three years. She has a plea for a new trial pending. The false swearing indictment grew out of the marriage of Miss Robinson and Shannon, it being alleged that false statements were made to the ordinary of Gwinnett county by Mrs. Booth in order to get the marriage ceremony performed. Both Miss Robinson and Shannon were members of the cast of the road show.

In the trial Monday before Judge Virgil B. Moore, Mrs. Booth was defended by Attorneys John I. Kelly, of Lawrenceville, and Frank Grizzard and H. F. Sharp, of Atlanta.

Miss Jacquenita Lindsay Weds Robert Mayo, of Havana, Cuba

Simple dignity and beauty characterized the wedding of Miss Jacquenita Lindsay to Robert Grady Mayo, of Havana, Cuba, which was solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock at Epworth Methodist church, in Inman Park. Rev. Robert Z. Tyler, pastor of Grace M. E. church, performed the impressive ring ceremony.

Beautifully arranged palms and ferns interspersed with seven branched candelabra holding lighted tapers formed a lovely setting for the ceremony. Tall floor baskets filled with gladioli and roses were placed on each side of the altar, and the altar railing and aisles were covered in white satin to complete the effectiveness of the white satin pre-die which was placed in front of the altar.

An appropriate musical program was rendered preceding and during the ceremony by Miss Sylvia Ruth Brown, of Gainesville, pianist, and Mrs. Lee Green, violinist. Preceding the ceremony Howard K. Chapman, Jr., soloist, sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "All for You." Let's "Liebestraum" played solo during the ceremony and the bride party entered to the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin."

The ushers, Paul Lindsay, Jr., and Jack Noble, were followed by the bridesmaid and groomsmen, Miss Kathryn Baldwin and J. Rex Edmondson. Miss Louise Noble, maid of honor, was followed by the flower girl, little Miss Virginia Langford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Langford, of Marietta. Miss Noble and Miss Baldwin wore models of pink and blue point d'esprit. Their gowns were fashioned alike, having medium waistline with graduated ruffles forming the long skirt. Large flat bows of satin in the pastel shades placed at the back waistline were the only contrasting colors. They wore slippers to match their costumes and carried shower bouquets of pale pink roses. Little Miss Langford wore a dainty frock of white chiffon over satin and white satin slippers. She carried a Queen Anne basket of vari-colored roses tied with pink tulle.

The bride entered with her father, Paul Leonard Lindsay, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Lee A. Green. She wore a wedding gown of duchess satin and rose point lace which was becomingly fastened with semiprecious bodice. The modish skirt, which fell to the ankles, was draped at the left side with an ornament of pearls and overlaid with ruffles of lace. The veil consisted of layers of tulle showered with orange blossoms and was caught to her hair in cap style and fastened with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

Mrs. Paul L. Lindsay, mother of the bride, wore a model of black chiffon with cream lace and a shoulder bouquet of sweetest roses and valley lilies. The groom's mother, Mrs. James L. Mayo, wore a model of black chiffon with orange roses and valley lilies. Preceding the ceremony Howard K. Chapman, Jr., soloist, sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "All for You." Let's "Liebestraum" played solo during the ceremony and the bride party entered to the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin."

Mr. and Mrs. Mayo left immediately after the ceremony for Havana, Cuba, where they will make their home. The bride's traveling costume was an ensemble of tan tulle with blouse of peach crepe. She wore a small hat of tan felt with accessories to match. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leonard Lindsay and is a graduate of Girls' High school and a popular member of the younger social set.

Mr. Mayo is the youngest son of Mr. James Lewis Mayo, of Atlanta, and is at present connected with the Havana agency of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta at Havana, Cuba. Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hagan, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Howard King Chapman, Jr., of Washington, D. C.; Miss Sylvia Ruth Brown, of Gainesville; Mr. and Mrs. John Hagan, of Miami, Fla.; Mrs. L. L. Ma-gruder, of Havana, Cuba, and Mrs. G. C. Langford, of Marietta.

Chinese Nationalists Repulse Rebel Group

SHANGHAI, June 16.—(AP)—Government forces today halted the drive of the southern rebels close to Wu-chang's walls, but were reported thrust back by the northern rebels fighting toward Wuchang and its sister cities, Hankow and Nanyang, in central China.

Fifty thousand nationalists fought off the charge of the southerners. President Chiang Kai-Shek in person commanded the government troops, who after recent retreats from Chang-sha and Yochow, gave way again Sunday.

The northern alliance rebels, however, were reported to have forced back the nationalists in sharp fighting north of Hankow. Weakened by withdrawals of its troops to fight the southerners, the government army withdrew to Chuan-chia, 25 miles south of Chengchow, Honan province, along the Pingping-Hankow railway.

Miss Mildred Marchant Weds Mr. Haswell at Home Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Mildred La Vancha Marchant and Frank Perdon Haswell, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was performed yesterday at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Marchant, on Stillwood drive, Druid Hills. Rev. R. L. Russell, pastor of Druid Hills Methodist church, officiated, in the presence of relatives and close friends of the bride.

The improvised altar was placed under the arch between the spacious living room and music room. On each side were banked palms, ferns and garden flowers. In the center was a large basket of gladioli and the windows, arches and stairways were gracefully festooned with asparagus fern.

Proceeding the entrance of the bridal party, a program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Roselyn Haswell, sister of the groom, Mrs. Arthur Styron sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" by Victor Herbert, and "I Love You Truly."

Mr. Haswell chose as his best man Herman L. Ryman, of Chattanooga, and the maid of honor was Miss Pearl Beane. She wore a gown of yellow chiffon, made with tight-fitting waist and full skirt, ankle length. Her satin slippers were dyed to match her costume and her hat was a becoming model of yellow. Her corsage was of opelia roses and lily of the valley.

The bride wore a traveling suit of pearl gray trimmed in shade of powder blue. Her hat, shoes and gloves were of corresponding shades, and her only ornament was a string of pearls, gift of her father. She carried a handkerchief of real lace and her flowers were orchids and brides' roses showered with valley lilies tied with orchid ribbon.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Marchant entertained at an informal reception. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, of Chattanooga, and members of the wedding party.

The bride's table was overlaid with a marble cloth and centered with a mound of pastel shaded flowers and southern smilax that held the bride's cake. It was artistically decorated with tiny roses, flowers and love birds. On the topmost tier was a miniature of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Haswell left immediately for an extended trip to points of interest in Florida and Cuba. After their return they will be at home to their friends in Chattanooga, Tenn.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

PETER WASTES SYMPATHY. BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Give not of sympathy in haste, For often it will go to waste. —Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was sorry for Jerry Muskrat. Grandfather Frog had just informed Peter that Jerry's house in the Smiling Pool had been washed away in the spring flood. Peter had always admired that house. He had considered it a very fine house. He had always wondered that any one could build such a good house. Now, to find that that house was gone was something of a shock to Peter. Peter said he "but I'm not sorry for myself, I don't quite see why you are sorry for me."

"I'm sorry for you," replied Peter. "I'm ever so sorry for you."

Jerry Muskrat blinked more than ever. "That's nice of you, Peter," said he, "but I'm not sorry for myself, I don't quite see why you are sorry for me."

"I'm sorry that you haven't any home," said Peter.

"Oh!" exclaimed Jerry. "What makes you think I haven't any home?"

"It was swept away in the spring flood, wasn't it?" inquired Peter in a twinkling.

"Peter's eyes flew open very wide. "Grandfather Frog says it was, and it isn't here any more," said he.

"Oh!" said Jerry, pretending that he was just beginning to understand. "You must mean my old house. That was swept away in the spring flood. But a house isn't necessarily a home. I've still got a home and a very good one, so you don't need to be sorry for me."

"Where is it?" demanded Peter. "Is it up the Laughing Brook?"

"That's telling," replied Jerry. "I think you're fooling me," replied Peter somewhat crossly. "I've been all along the Laughing Brook and I haven't seen a sign of a house of yours. How can you have a house and not have it seen? Why, your old house of yours here in the Smiling Pool stood out just like the Big Rock."

Bulk of Selling Avalanche Is Borne by Utility Group

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

Associated Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, June 16.—(P)—The curb market experienced its most drastic decline since the autumn selling panic today. Curb stocks were dumped overboard right and left to protect big board margins, and powerful bear attacks aggravated the situation in spots. Sales aggregated

1,788,100 shares.

A feature was Missouri-Kansas

Pipe which collapsed from the year's high of 36 1/4 to a new low of 25 1/4 and closed at 21 1/2, off 4 3/4 points. This stock has held stubbornly around the year's high level since it was sold two weeks ago, but it went into a nose dive today when the selling became so heavy in the Chicago market that it was necessary to suspend trading there to give specialists an opportunity to balance their books. Frank P. Parish &

Co., which has been sponsoring the issue, announced that selling because so heavy today that supporting orders were withdrawn, a technical situation not involving the value of the shares.

Such popular issues as Electric

Bond & Share and Cities Service plunged to new low levels for the year, along with the majority of the more active issues. Electric Bond &

Share dropped more than 10 points to 78, the year's lowest, compared to a

November bottom of 50. Cities Service dropped nearly 40 points to a 1935 low of 22, compared to a low last fall of 20.

Utilities bore the brunt of the selling, but oils, industrials and investment issues were also under considerable pressure. American and Foreign Power warrants, American Light and

Traction, United Gas, Lone Star Gas and United Light A were among issues losing about 5 to 10 points. In the oils, Cuddeback and Gulf each dropped 5 points to new lows. Standard of Indiana lost only 3-4. Deere was again under pressure, dropping 8 points to a new low of 100, then rallying moderately. In the mines,

Newmont dropped 10 points to the year's lowest. In the investment and trading company group, Goldman

Sachs was sagged a couple of points to 100. Trans-America was fairly well supported.

Travelers Rally To Beat Crackers in Tenth Inning, 12 to 11; Eddie Miller and Charlie Hall, Alabama Pros, Qualify for Open; Bobby Jones Takes It Easy in First Round and Cards 73

Bobby Jones stepped away safely enough in the first of the qualifying rounds of the British open championship with his 73. His friends here breathed sighs of relief when news came of that score.

If Bobby had shot a 68, his well wishers would have found excuse to moan that he "got hot" too soon and predict dire fate in the succeeding rounds.

Another 18-hole round will be played Tuesday by the entire field.

Then the low 100 scores and ties will be qualified for the championship.

BATTLE BEGINS WEDNESDAY.

The championship will be awarded to the lowest score in the 72-hole test which starts Wednesday with an 18-hole round. The second 18 holes will be played Thursday.

Then the field is finally cut to the low 60 scorers, who play 36 holes Friday in the final two rounds.

The pressure does not come until Wednesday, then. The first two days do not matter so much. The anxiety can be postponed for a couple of days.

A GENUINE STAND-OUT.

Bobby Jones remains the favorite in the qualifying field of nearly 300 men at prohibitive odds.

What a remarkable tribute to the genius of one player that he be picked against such a tremendous field as a stand-out.

Man o' War running against a lot of Shetland ponies would not be given any greater preference by experts.

Yet a false touch, a delicate variance from perfect timing in stroke for a brief part of the contest, can wreck the game even of a Bobby Jones.

Golf is the most delicately balanced and therefore the most difficult of games to forecast.

HOW THEY PAID OFF.

It seems that not a few citizens undertook to invest sums of money in Jack Sharkey or Max Schmeling, Preferred, and some of them are still wondering, yeah, even arguing, whether they won or lost.

Below is appended the "official" decision of the famous Broadway stake holder, Jack Doyle, who operates a billiard hall near Times Square, and is accepted as an authority on such matters:

1. All those who bet on Schmeling to win, with no stipulation as to fouls, of course win their bets.
2. All those who bet on Sharkey to win, but stipulated that fouls nullified the wager, get a drawback and bet it off.
3. Those who bet that Sharkey would knock out Schmeling of course lose.
4. It must be remembered at all times that there was no knockout, that all bets are not off because of the foul, and that a foul is not a technical knockout for either the man fouled or the man delivering the foul. While a man fouled is knocked out of time, a foul certainly cannot constitute a knockout.
5. Those who wagered that Schmeling would win by a knockout lose.

At any rate that is how the Broadway money was paid out amid screams of pain from the great rank and file of cloak and suit men who bought Sharkey to win.

ANOTHER PETREL POSSIBILITY.

John McGraw is asking questions of those qualified to inform him on the worth of Howard Lawson, the former Oglethorpe pitcher, who is going at a great rate in a Jacksonville uniform just now.

According to the most recent averages, Lawson has won 11 and lost 4, having strung six victories in a row. Lawson is just another of these Oglethorpe boys who is rushing on to bigger things in professional baseball.

POETIC JUSTICE.

It serves me right. Not long ago this department, feeling its oats, acted smart and called attention to what appeared to be a humorous error in a contemporary's writings.

And in the next paragraph I was persuaded by Julian Harris to correct the Macdonald News on a quotation from the late Washington Dessau.

And what did I do but write the first name of that great man "William."

I had a well defined presentiment something like that would happen. I guess it requires only a few such experiences to effect a complete cure.

CHAIN LETTER HALTED.

"Dinkie" Dallas undertook in a letter to correct Julian Harris' version of what the lamented Mr. Dessau said and he had to send a follow up note special delivery to correct an error in his first draft of the correction.

The matter is rapidly becoming worse than a chain letter. I am turning over all the correspondence to Julian to answer (for).

CHIN INTACT.

Answering Henry Myers, Tifton, Ga.: Young Stribling never has been knocked out.

DON'T MENTION IT.

Answering Major G. H. Franke's nice note thanking The Constitution sport department for support given the recent polo tournament at Fort McPherson: It was an opportunity for us to see some great polo matches amid pleasant surroundings.

WRITE YOUR OWN.

Answering a telephone call, after exhaustive investigation: Par on the Hoylake course where the British open championship proper will be played is variously estimated as 72 and 73. Bernard Darwin says there is no absolute par; it varies with the weather.

CRACKERS LOSE TO TRAVELERS IN TENTH, 12-11

Sluggers Have Big Day. Five Home Runs Are Knocked.

By Ralph McGill.

Seven pitchers, ten infielders, six outfielders, three catchers and a pinch hitter labored in the baseball vineyard at Spiller field Monday afternoon and after ten innings the decision went 12 to 11 in favor of the Travelers.

It takes, so they say, nine tailors to make a man. The fans called this thing which 27 ball players made Monday everything but a ball game. They called it some very harsh names indeed.

Squire Johnny Dobbs was home ill. He probably had a relapse when he heard the result of the game. Physicians said he might not be able to be present today but like as not he will. The Crackers need him.

CHANCE TO RISE.

The Crackers had a chance to move into fifth place by a victory. They went into the ninth leading by three runs after some very violent and terrific hitting by the balloon buster, Luke Appling, and the berserk Fred Polvogt.

And in the very wild ninth, which saw a repetition of the false armistice celebration, the Travelers got three tallies off Red Oldham, the third cracker thrower, and then scored again in the tenth. The Crackers got two men on in their half but the guns that boomed so loudly before were silent.

The false armistice celebration came when the scoreboard showed two strikes on Koster, Traveler center fielder. He swung at one and missed for what the crowd thought to be the third strike. They started swarming on the field, thinking he had struck out and that the Crackers were the winners. They had to charge back to their places when Umpire Goes revealed the true situation. Mr. Koster had struck but once previously.

KOSTER DOUBLES.

And what did Koster do then? He doubled to score the Nordic Jahn with the tying run. And the war was on once more.

There never was such a game for catchers. Harry Kandler, the Traveler receiver, whacked two balls clean over the republican grandstand in left field. Fred Polvogt hit one over there and also got a triple and a couple of singles. He has been hitting them hard for the past few days but really broke through Monday.

And Luke, Balloon Busting Luke, came through with two singles and a home run as his contribution. Oh, 'twas a gala afternoon for a while.

KANDLER OUT.

Umpire Goes got Harry Kandler out of there in the fourth. Which was very fortunate. Two home runs in two at-bats. After that he was ruled one Cracker hit fair by inches. Harry Kandler made some uncouth remarks and was shoed out.

In the tenth inning Buck Redfern squawked so loudly that he was sent away by Umpire Bulldog Williams. Buck Redfern squawked so very loudly that he will probably draw a nice fine.

Fat Elrod announced so many changes that he grew hoarse. Jack Steele protested 15 decisions. He was near wildness at times.

In the stands the fans were alternately happy and shocked. The Crackers came on the field looking tired. They no doubt were. They had played a double-header on Thursday, one game Friday, another pair on Saturday, and then jumped to Memphis and back over Sunday.

GET LEAD.

The Travelers stepped out with three runs in the second and increased it to five when they had done with their half of the fourth. Chinks looked darker than the inside of a motor-man's glove for the Crackers. They were listless and dull. Jack Knight was not pitching good ball. He was let two out and then permit the Travelers to go on a hitting rampage.

In their half of the fourth the Crackers got busy. With Carlyle out, Elrod came in. He replaced Lamotte singled. So did Appling. That scored Elrod. Polvogt got his second single. Jack Knight punched a sacrifice fly about counted Lamotte. Up came Sam Langford with nothing but a triple, and Appling and Polvogt counted. Jack Sheehan could not improve matters and the inning ended.

Knight got through the fifth in good fashion and the Crackers came back with a lot of hitting, including Appling's home run and Polvogt's triple. Four more runs came clattering in.

THREE MORE.

Three more tallies in the sixth when Jimmy Johnston, who replaced Lamotte when that worthy hurt a leg, doubled to start the inning and was followed by Appling with a base on balls and Polvogt with his home run.

Knight had given way to Nick Dumovich in the sixth. He lasted until the ninth, when he walked. Nicolai gave up a single to Griffin. Red Oldham came along, but the veteran southpaw wasn't ready. He walked three men in that inning and ended.

Chicks Here Today! Dobbs Ready to Go

Memphis opens a five-game series at Spiller field this afternoon with the Travelers. The Crackers with their most severe test yet.

The Crackers beat the Chicks Sunday and hope to keep on this week. Johnny Dobbs, who was ill at home Monday, announced that he would be on the lines today.

Andy Messenger is scheduled to pitch. The game will be called at 2 o'clock.

Johnny Best, indicated by an arrow, is $50,000 wealthier since Saturday, when his horse, Reveille, won the American Derby. And he didn't have a dime on his own horse despite the fact that a $2 picket paid $113.08. Left to right, from Best, Governor Louis Emerson, Lieutenant Governor Louis Sterling, Stuyvesant Peabody and Jockey Willie Fronk. The silver-looking ship on the table is the winner's trophy.

MILLER, HALL QUALIFY HERE

Frank Ball and Beckett Fail in Test for U. S. Open Meet.

By Roy White.

Eddie Miller, of Gadsden, Ala., Southeastern Professional Golf champion, and Charles W. Hall, Birmingham Country Club professional, will accompany Bobby Jones to the national open golf championship, to be played at Minneapolis, Minn., starting July 10. Miller and Hall qualified Monday over the East Lake Country Club course for the two vacant places from this district. Jones, the champion, heads a list of 30 exempted players.

Miller led a field of 14 starters with 148 strokes for the 36 holes and Hall won a play-off with Alex Milne, of LaGrange, after both had finished with 149 strokes. Hall won on the third hole of the extra round with a par four, while Milne took a five after an out-of-bound drive.

The afternoon round was a chuck full of tragic strokes along with the victor's smooth, clock-like golf. Two well-known southern golfers were eliminated because of a game-of-golf ending.

It was one of the best 36-hole rounds that has ever been played on the East Lake course. Twelve of the original 14 starters began the afternoon round only three strokes apart and finished only six strokes apart.

Tragedy overtook Sam Perry, southern amateur champion, on the 14th hole in the afternoon round after he had piled up a commanding lead. He took a bad nine when he was over the green and into a trap on the next hole, then took a five on the next hole to make the rout complete. And with 14 strokes on those two holes, Perry finished with 152, four strokes back of the leader.

J. Carter Jackson, former Stockade professional, blew his chances for victory on the 12th hole in the afternoon round. His drive was well over 300 yards, but he topped his second into a trap guarding the green and took a 6. Six inches higher and the ball would have landed near the pin for a certain four and possible three.

Miller had two consistent rounds Monday, after taking 40 on the first nine. He finished the morning round with a 75 and cut two strokes off in the afternoon 18 to finish with a 148, one stroke ahead of the field.

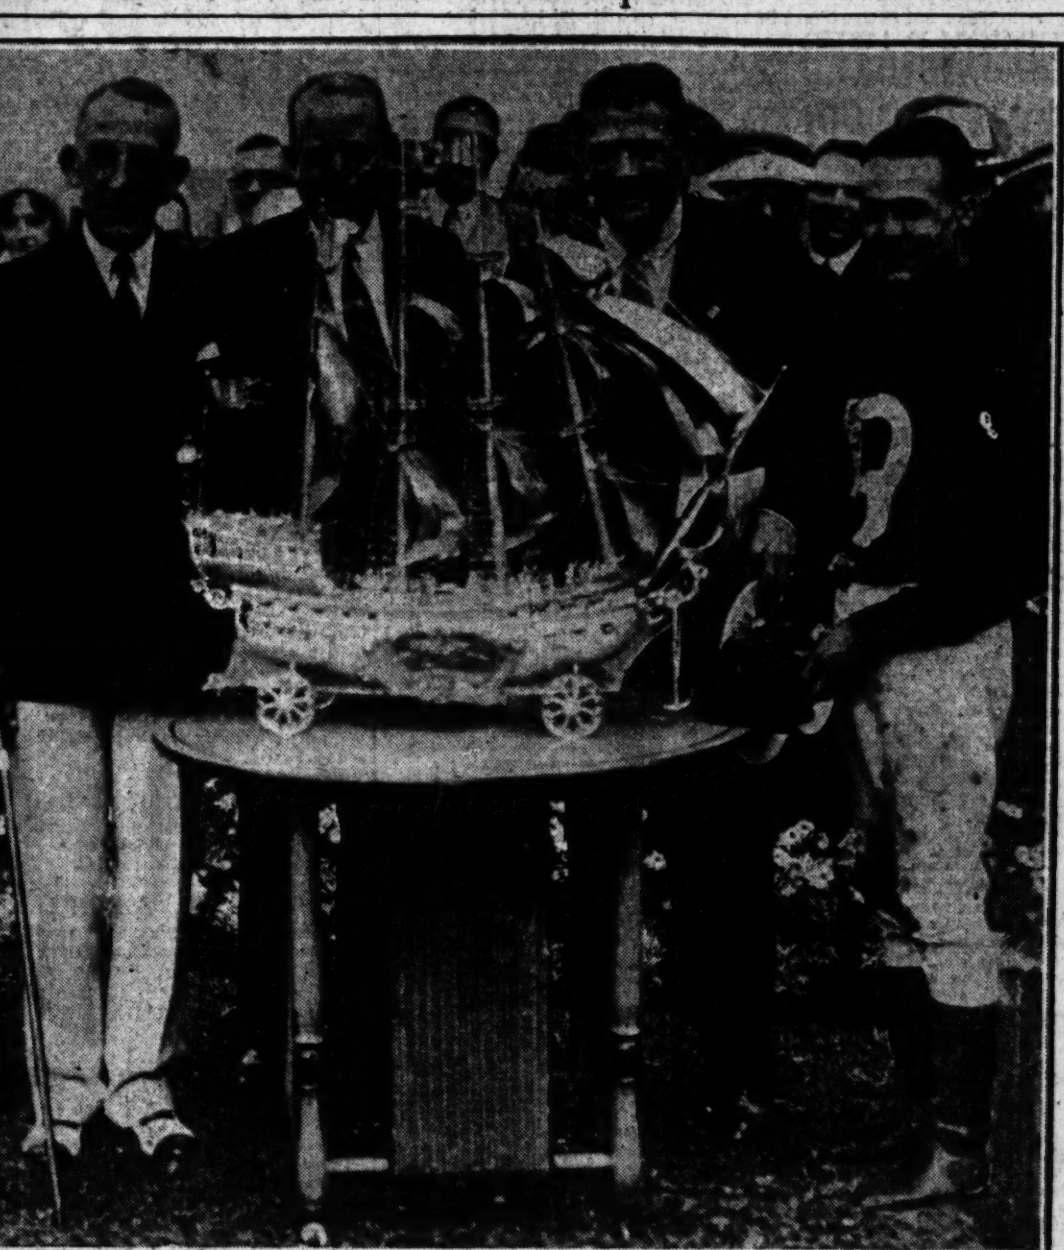

His game was well-nigh perfect, particularly his drives and his putting. He had only three birdies on the 36 holes, but 24 par holes gave him confidence and an advantage which he held throughout the match. He was one stroke ahead of Perry at the end of 27 holes.

Milne and Hall had two good rounds to finish in a tie. Milne was leading the field by one stroke at the end of 18 holes with a 74 but could not better his game in the afternoon round.

Hall had a 76 on the first 18 and came back strong in the afternoon with a 73. Hall's driving and his approach shots proved the strength of his game. Time after time he came

La Belle France Offers Possible Solution for "Foul" Problem in Good Old U. S. A.

By Ralph McGill.

Perhaps La Belle France has solved this prize ring problem after all. Positively the hugest joke of the present era of pediculous prize fighting is the edit from Paris that Primo Carnera, called the Tall Tower of Gorgonzola, has been selected by the military board for the next draft class which must serve one year in the army.

Somewhat the thought of a prize fighter actually fighting in a military service is enough to cause even our best citizenry to clasp its sides and roll on the floor with laughter. And the French mean it. They do not make allowances over there for the prize ring profession. They do not have solemn editors and their counsel them. They declare that either Carnera will report when his day comes or remain away from France forever. Because arrest will face him the moment he lands on any French territory.

CITIZEN OF FRANCE. When Signor Carnera went to France as a laborer he signed a request for French naturalization. It was granted shortly after he arrived in the United States on his tour of the country and followed the first round of prize fighting.

Primo Carnera will not, of course, go back to that dear France. He will not care to don a pair of army pants and go out to repair roads or chase the Riffs. He will not.

The national boxing commission should go to congress, which seems willing to make any sort of law at all, and make it a law that any prize fighter who fouls in a match shall serve one year with the armed forces of the country and follow the first round of prize fighting.

This would cause an immediate cessation of fouling. In fact it would probably change the entire fashion of prize fighting. There would be no blows struck below the chin, so astiduously would the prize fighters avoid the foul region.

It would probably thin the ranks of the prize ring profession, because the prize ring profession, with few exceptions, has shown a marked aversion for anything smacking of abject surrender. One doesn't get rich in the army. There is an old song that says so.

It is very unfortunate that Europe is beginning to deal so harshly with her prize fighters. It will mean, no doubt, that there will be a new exodus of foreign prize fighters from the countries demanding military services so that they may avoid the possibility of anything smacking of real fighting. Why, a man might get hurt.

Signor Carnera, called the most formidable of all the foreign lot, may be forced to go back to that dear France. If he does not win from George Godfrey he will be in no demand at all. George Godfrey, so the boys say, has been known to go in the tank now and then. That is to say he has, in order to get matches, become voluntarily horizontal. A man must eat.

MIGHT GAIN IMPORTANCE. Of course if Signor Carnera flattens George Godfrey and goes on to flatten Herr Schmeling or some of the lesser lights, he will become a star.

DIEGEL LEADS U. S. GOLF ACES ON FIRST DAY

Archie Compston, Playing at Wallasey, Equals Leo's Hoylake Card.

By Bernard Darwin.

British Golf Expert. (Copyright, 1930, by The Constitution by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

HOYLAKE, England, June 16.—The battle for the British open golf championship began here today with the first qualifying round. Half of the field played at Hoylake and the other half at Wallasey. Tomorrow the players will reverse these positions, so everybody during the match will come to Hoylake one day or the other, and since I cannot be in two places at one time, like a bird, I will stay firmly at Hoylake and give you only hearsay evidence about those who play at Wallasey. One of these players, Horton Smith, starts so late that he will not come into today's story at all.

Tommy Armour and Gene Sarazen, though entered, have not materialized, and George Voigt and Harrison Johnston scratched at the last moment, so the American forces aren't quite so formidable as they were expected to be, but quite dangerous enough in all conscience as they at once proceeded to show.

BARNES FIRST OUT.

Jim Barnes was the first man out here today and he made a thoroughly bad start—four over fours for the first six holes, in perfect weather and on a course in perfect condition was not very encouraging. However, Jim settled down to a steady stride, which brought him in with 77. It was not a great score, but good enough to let him sleep tranquilly tonight.

Next came Leo Diegel, the American professional champion. He began by being good and ended in a blaze of fireworks. So far in his visit to England he never struck a steadier pace. I did not really like his game when he just beat Mitchell at Moor Park, and he has lost twice to Mitchell since then. But this morning his start looked better to me, and his initial shot was at least lucky. He has given up using his driver which had been laying him in trouble, and drove extremely well with the brassie. Going out, though, he looked to be in good form, but let some strokes slip on the greens and 37 to the turn was no more than ordinarily good.

BEAUTIFUL GOLF.

Coming home, Diegel played quite beautifully. There were no one-shot holes and a number of very long two-shotters, long enough for anybody. I should say. He came home in 33, a really wonderful score. He had just over five, and his two three at one-shotters and missed a short putt for another three at the 12th. With three holes to go, he needed very little more. He went gloriously mad and ended in 34-3, getting 70. A great upset shot laid him almost dead at the 16th and another shot sent him shot at the hole did it. He made no mistakes with putts.

Diegel looks to me like a man who is just coming to the top of his game and knows it.

KNOWS IT.

An hour after Diegel started, Bobby Jones began. He had 73 and I do not think he was trying unduly hard, have seen him play many times, and he is a really wonderful player. Bobby said to me of these Hoylake greens that he never putted on better than at these Hoylake greens. He acted up to his words, for he putted very well. It was just as well that he did for some of his seconds were a little loosely judged, according to his standard, and he had to do a good deal in the way of bolting down three shots into two by dexterous chipping and snuffing holes.

When Bobby reached the turn in 36 and started home with a four and a two, I thought he was set for 69, but then came disaster. A thoroughly bad second shot on the 12th—Bobby can play a bad one sometimes—landed him in an unplayable place in a bunker. He took two to get out and that meant a six. The 36th hole, short hole, beset by traps. Bobby got into one of them and nearly stayed in it with his second shot. He got his four, but 69 had vanished into the land of dreams and shadows, and he had to pull himself together and finish strongly to get his 73. He will try harder and play better when these preliminary canters are over.

A BETTER ROUND.

At Wallasey, George Von Elm played a round rather like Diegel's. He went out in 39 and then had a concatenating run of three to come home in 32 for 71. He had a very murky run of five on the way out—no less than five of them in a row when, he told me, he suddenly lost all his smooth putting touch and reverted to the snapper hitting of his unregenerate days. However, the touch came back in full measure—brimming over on the way home.

Macdonald Smith also played at Wallasey. He went out down right poorly in 41. Then he rallied and 77 for the round was no doubt quite good enough.

As to our own men, Cotton played very well at Hoylake for 73. I like to look at him. He is hitting the ball with the tranquil ease, almost gentleness and seems to have got over his influenza.

MITCHELL SCORES 78.

Allis, always reliable, also had 73. Mitchell got 76, marred by a gratuitous seven at the sixteenth, and Charles Whitcombe, who has been playing better than any of our defenders, had the same score.

At Wallasey, a good young player, Twine, had 68, and, generally speaking, the scores were good.

Brock and Schlee Plan Flight Today

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 16. (AP)—With improved weather conditions in sight, Edward F. Schlee and William F. Brock, Detroit aviators, tonight planned to hop off at dawn tomorrow on a round trip flight to San Diego, Cal., in an effort to better three existing transcontinental speed records.

Piloting a stream-lined monoplane equipped with a radio, the flyers hope to establish new speed marks for cross-country flight from east to west, west to east, and also for the round trip.

Mugambi, now strengthened and refreshed by his long rest, felt ready to set out again for Waziri, and finding himself another knobstick turned his back upon the river and plunged into the mazes of the jungle. . . . As Taglat struggled with the bonds which secured the arms of his captive, the great lion that eyed the two from behind a nearby clump of bushes wormed closer to his intended prey. The ape's back was toward the lion. He did not see the broad head, fringed by its rough mane, protruding through the leafy wall.

He could not know that the powerful hind paws were gathering close beneath the tawny belly preparatory to a sudden spring. His first intimation of impending danger was the thunderous and triumphant roar which the charging lion could no longer suppress. Scarce pausing for a backward glance, Taglat abandoned the unconscious woman and fled in the opposite direction from the horrid sound which had broken in so unexpected and terrifying a manner upon his startled ears; but the warning had come too late to save him.

The lion, in his second bound, alighted full upon the broad shoulders of the anthropoid. As the great bull went down, he turned upon his back and closed with the lion in a death struggle so fearless and abandoned that for a moment the great Numa himself may have trembled for the outcome. Seizing the lion by the mane, Taglat buried his yellowed fangs deep in the monster's throat, growling hideously. Mixed with the ape's voice, the lion's roars of rage and pain reverberated through the jungle.

Rolling over and over upon the turf, the two battled with demonic fury until the colossal cat, by doubling his hind paws far up beneath his belly, sank his talons deep into Taglat's chest. Numa accomplished his design. With a last spasmodic struggle, the anthropoid relaxed limp beneath his titanic adversary. Scrambling to his feet, Numa looked about for new enemies. Only the unconscious form of the girl met his gaze a few paces away. With an angry growl he placed a forepaw upon his slain enemy and roared forth a victory cry.
